

Want to Partner?

Name and Email Address:

Christine Roth, Christine.roth@bridgevalley.edu

Institution: BridgeValley Community and Technical College, Lindenwood University, Maryville University, and St. Louis Community College

Discipline: English and Humanities

Course/Courses you seek to Partner: English Composition I and II, Introduction to Humanities, Appalachian History and Culture, Introduction to Literature, World Literature, Development Reading and Writing

Semester you hope to offer a COIL Course: Spring 2020 and Fall 2021.

Likely Class Size: 15 to 25

Discipline or country with whom you may prefer to partner: No preferences

Motivation for COIL: Teaching is a passion that has grown for me over the years. The prospect of exposing and helping my students broaden their thought base is exciting to me. I work hard to teach my students to question everything and develop their own opinions about the world; not let the world tell them what to think. In teaching with COIL, I see it as another opportunity for my students to learn about other environments. To see how the world works for them outside of their own small piece of it. I look back at my own educational experiences, and I'm grateful for the chances I had in traveling to different countries and states. I learned so much from observing and exploring the world around me. If I can give my students a small sample of that experience, then I am willing to do so. I look forward to learning and working with other educators.

